

1 God made a covenant.

¹After these things the word of the Lord came to Abram in a vision: "Fear not, Abram, I am your shield; your reward shall be very great." . . . ¹⁸On that day the Lord made a covenant with Abram, saying, "To your offspring I give this land . . ." GENESIS 15:1,18

In the Old Testament, a covenant was the way people sealed a deal or a transaction. They would cut animals in half and both parties would walk between the two halves, legally binding themselves to fulfill their end of the deal for fear of ending up like those animals. Although God is already faithful, He made a covenant with Abraham, thereby assuring him that He would do exactly what He said. For us today, God made a covenant through Jesus' death and resurrection, where He extended His promises to those who will receive Jesus as their Lord and Savior. According to Galatians 3:29, how are we part of God's covenant with Abraham?

2 God's covenant stands despite our doubts.

But Abram said, "O Lord God, what will you give me, for I continue childless, and the heir of my house is Eliezer of Damascus?"

GENESIS 15:2

Sometimes when we receive a promise from God, we tend to look at ourselves and see only what we have or do not have. But God's covenant is based on who He is and what He can do. God did not change His mind nor retract His promises when Abraham's initial reaction was doubt instead of faith. Instead, God reassured him that his present situation will not stay the same. What does Job 42:1,2 say about what God can do in our lives and why He would do things for us?

3 Faith is our response to the covenant.

⁵And he brought him outside and said, "Look toward heaven, and number the stars, if you are able to number them." Then he said to him, "So shall your offspring be." ⁶And he believed the Lord, and he counted it to him as righteousness. GENESIS 15:5,6

Abraham eventually responded in faith as God assured him of His promises. He believed the Lord, and he counted it to him as righteousness. It is only appropriate for us to respond to God's covenant by putting our faith in Him. We must put our faith in Jesus, showing our confidence in God as we claim His promises which are extended to us through this new covenant in Him. According to Hebrews 8:10-12, what are some of the promises of God in His covenant with us through Jesus?
